ICCH Program Objectives

Homeopathy has been helping family physicians and specialists to provide personalized care management to their patients.

1. Dementia

How can homeopathy help patients with symptoms of dementia and bring some support to family members who are often overwhelmed by their changed loved one.

2. ADD – ADHD

Pediatricians working with children with ADD will discuss their clinical experiences using homeopathic medicines.

3. Pain Management

A multidisciplinary approach that addresses not only the physical component, but also the mental and emotional components.

4. Best supportive care in Oncology

Quality of life patients must be our first priority and therefore has to be the common medical denominator.

5. Clinical Research and Homeopathy

6. How To Integrate Homeopathy Into Your Daily Practice

Create a deeper, safer, and more individualized therapeutic relationship with your patients.
